

If there are at least two possession classes, is there at least one conceptually inalienable class?

