
If yes to Q1, is/are the monoexponential plural markers formally irregularly applied across the lexicon? (For example, there are multiple allomorphs which are lexically specific)

- no
- yes