

Does the language have a dedicated construction to express sociative causation?

