

Does the language have a phonemic l which alternates only with laterals and glides?

