

Does the language have a phonemic distinction between glottalized and non–glottalized liquids?

